

RESEARCH INSTITUTE CLUE+, ENVIRONMENTAL HUMANITIES CENTER & IALA PRESENT
A PRE LAC2021 WEBINAR EVENT:

BOOK LAUNCH EVENT

ENVIRONMENTAL HUMANITIES: A RETHINKING OF LANDSCAPE ARCHAEOLOGY?

Interdisciplinary academic research related to different perspectives of landscapes

Friday June 4th, 2021 | 14:00-14.45 hrs CET

Please register for this event via <https://tinyurl.com/3sffx96z>

- Environment cannot be regarded as a blank space that landscape meaning is projected onto.
- Humans reinforce the environmental challenges in the past, today and in the future.
- What cultural factors drive human action, what role is played by ethics and how is landscape experienced emotionally?
How are concepts derived from art, literature, and history function in such of meaning attribution and other cultural processes?
- This humanities approach is of utmost importance with issues such as global warming, an escalating loss of biodiversity as well as increasingly toxic environment.
- A new landscape archaeology, inspired by Environmental Humanities meets these challenges and well across disciplinary boundaries.

PROGRAM:

14.00-14.05 Environmental humanities a rethinking of landscape archaeology?
Introduction Sjoerd Kluiving

14.05-14.30 Selected pitches of book authors

14.30-14.35 Response by Professor Guillermo Reher (reviewer): Cultural Introduction to Spain, Introduction to International Studies, The New Europe

14.35-14.40 Conclusion by Professor Kerstin Liden (editor), in Archaeological Science with a special interest in Environmental Humanities.

14.40-14.45 Presentation of book to Professor Petra van Dam, board member of the Environmental Humanities Center (Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam).

